

Dear Creative Director,

This is a query regarding an opportunity to freelance for you as a fashion designer. In the last six years of my short career, I have developed collection after collection for independent labels and boutique brands, with every single collection working on everything from digital sketching to technical packs to production coordination.

My portfolio comprises streetwear, loungewear, and genderless styles—always with a strong, contemporary twist. Let's connect to determine how my design DNA can add value to your next project.

Thank you for your time,

Nico Tanaka
