

Hey Ms. Carter,

So, here's the deal—I saw your posting for the nanny/housekeeper gig and honestly, I couldn't scroll past it. I've been wrangling littles and keeping homes from tipping into chaos for over a decade now, which basically means I can juggle meal prep, spilled juice, and last-minute school projects with my eyes closed (though I try not to).

School drop-offs? I'm a pro. Grocery runs? I know the secret to not forgetting the milk. Light cleaning? Well, let's just say your vacuum is about to get a new best friend. House stays sane, kids stay happy—pretty much my specialty.

If you wanna chat more or want to hear from the folks who still send me those cheesy thank-you cards, let me know. Would love to swing by and meet the fam.

Thanks for reading my ramble,
Olga Dimitriou

