

Dear Hiring Manager,

After several years in customer success roles in tech, I'm excited to shift into a flight attendant career that puts people and presence first. I'm applying to Alaska Airlines with full commitment and curiosity.

In my last role, I led high-touch onboarding for clients across five time zones, learning how to manage requests with care and communicate across cultures. My previous work in community theater also sharpened my ability to connect with strangers and stay calm on any stage.

Flying with Alaska would allow me to serve people in a whole new way—and I'm ready for takeoff.

Best,

Rhea Simmons